

The Resilient Research Writer: A Free Six-Week Programme to help you improve both your resilience and your writing output

This is a free six-week writing programme to help researchers become more resilient so that they can produce writing more efficiently and effectively under challenging circumstances. There will be two x 50-minute sessions per week, for six weeks.

- Each week, the first session will explore a tool to help researchers be more resilient.
- The second session of the week is a 'Structured Writing' activity: to boost productivity of their own writing – whether articles, books or theses – this session is in four parts:
  - Part 1: setting of intentions: what do participants want to achieve in this session
  - Part 2: a short writing 'warm up'
  - Part 3: participants getting on with their own writing
  - Part 4. A short writing 'cool down'
